Village of Streamwood

Streamwood, IL

Village President Billie Roth

Pledge Summary

The Village of Streamwood is an established community in the northwest suburban Chicago area. Streamwood has a strong reputation for its environmental stewardship. The Village owns and manages over 400 acres of wetland, open space, and natural preserves. The community's Cultural and Environmental Awareness Commission works to sustain this reputation with community programming focused on natural resource conservancy. They host various events including an environmental awareness day and community-based invasive removal program. The Village has received designation as a "Monarch Waystation" for its efforts in planting natural vegetation and supporting the health of monarchs and other pollinators.
