City of Dublin

Dublin, OH

Operations Administrator/Sustainability Emily Goliver

Pledge Summary

Established in 1810, the City of Dublin, USA, is home to approximately 50,000 residents. The City is committed to becoming the most sustainable, connected, and resilient global city of choice. The community places a high value on its natural resources and green spaces, recognizing the importance of protecting and enhancing them while serving as a model for residents and the broader community. As part of this commitment, the City actively supports conservation efforts to maintain pollinator habitats in both public and private spaces. Initiatives include programs such as Certified Backyard habitats, along with ongoing stewardship in City parks and green space, naturalizing open areas and creating new pollinator gardens and meadows, buffer zones around waterways and establishing native plants after invasive plant removal. Dublin also provides plant and wildlife education, as well as pollinator habitat support, to HOAs, residents, developers, community groups and garden clubs. Our Mayor and city leaders have committed to saving the Mornarch Butterfly by joining this pledge.
